A dedicated LP unit has been developed in order to optimize the fuel type. This means the logs, burner and therefore the flame are developed specifically for Natural Gas and Propane. These units are factory set for the fuel to ensure installation is as easy as possible and performance is optimized. In the unlikely event it is necessary to convert from one fuel to another, conversion kits for the EX units also include 2 replacement burners, which are required for installation. Since natural gas and propane have very different combustion characteristics the different burners ensure the impressive flame you expect in the Elevation X in both fuels.
